Research Theme – The Recent Recession in the UK

In your research on the recent recession in the UK you should consider:

- how the recession can create opportunities and threats for businesses and industries
- the long-term strategies and short-term plans adopted by businesses in the recession
- factors influencing the strategies businesses adopt in the recession
- strategies that businesses could have adopted to prepare for the recession
- the possible impact of the recession on stakeholders and on relationships between businesses and their stakeholders
- the case for and against different businesses and industries receiving government financial support during a recession.

Your research should consider the effects of and reaction to the recent recession in the UK in relation to different businesses and industries.

You should make reference to your research in your responses to Section A in the examination.

Read the item below and then answer one of the questions that follow.

Domino's Pizza

Domino's is Britain's biggest pizza delivery service with more than 500 outlets. It recently announced a 25% increase in its annual pre-tax profits to £23.4 million as consumers in the recession switched from eating in restaurants to buying takeaway food. About a third of the 2.7 million households it delivered to were new customers.

The Chief Executive of Domino's said that, despite the tough economic environment in 2008, he was confident that the company was well positioned for growth which would be achieved by exceeding customers' expectations of product quality and speed of delivery, thereby building customer loyalty. The company had also benefited from social change such as growth in one person households. Working closely with suppliers and employees, Domino's said that it was well on target to meet its objective of having 1000 stores in the next ten years.

Domino's results follow good news from another fast food company, Kentucky Fried Chicken (KFC). KFC announced that it would create 9000 jobs in the UK and Ireland by opening up another 300 new restaurants.
